INSTRUCTIONS

This attendance register is prepared in a manner so that the records kept thereon will not only supply the information needed by the local school officials but also supply the information which is called for by the State Department of Public Instruction.

Column two shows the time present. Each mark designating a whole day or a part of a day subtracted from the total number of days school was in operation during the period will give the time present.

Column three shows the time absent. The total of the figure in column two and column three should equal the number of days school was in operation during the period. If the information is kept on the Daily Register, it should be very easy to fill out the Teacher's Report to the Superintendent at the end of the semester.

The Teacher's Report of the Aggregate Attendance which is filed on October 31 and March 31 goes to the State Department of Public Instruction to determine the number of teaching units. This report should be very carefully filled out according to the information which is recorded on the Daily Register. The Daily Register becomes part of the regular record.

On the Enrollment Record, a column is provided to show whether or not a transfer certificate has been issued for the pupil who does not have legal residence within the corporation. The law provides that a pupil who does not have legal residence within the corporation has no right to receive his instruction in another corporation unless the transfer tuition is provided.

In the Period Report to the Superintendent, on line four, you will find a listing as "permanent withdrawals." A pupil is permanently withdrawn when illness or some other cause assures the school authorities and the attendance officer that the pupil will not be able to return during the entire semester or school year.

INSTRUCTIONS

This attendance register is prepared in a manner so that the records kept thereon will not only supply the information needed by the local school officials but also supply the information which is called for by the State Department of Public Instruction.

Column two shows the time present. Each mark designating a whole day or a part of a day subtracted from the total number of days school was in operation during the period will give the time present.

Column three shows the time absent. The total of the figure in column two and column three should equal the number of days school was in operation during the period. If the information is kept on the Daily Register, it should be very easy to fill out the Teacher's Report to the Superintendent at the end of the semester.

The Teacher's Report of the Aggregate Attendance which is filed on October 31 and March 31 goes to the State Department of Public Instruction to determine the number of teaching units. This report should be very carefully filled out according to the information which is recorded on the Daily Register. The Daily Register becomes part of the regular record.

On the Enrollment Record, a column is provided to show whether or not a transfer certificate has been issued for the pupil who does not have legal residence within the corporation. The law provides that a pupil who does not have legal residence within the corporation has no right to receive his instruction in another corporation unless the transfer tuition is provided.

In the Period Report to the Superintendent, on line four, you will find a listing as "permanent withdrawals." A pupil is permanently withdrawn when illness or some other cause assures the school authorities and the attendance officer that the pupil will not be able to return during the entire semester or school year.

RECOMMENDATIONS TO TRUSTEE

Supplies

Books

More library books for third and fourth grade are needed.

Equipment

Cabinets to keep materials and paper supplies in. If the cupboards in each room were made mouse proof a lot more storage space could be used, that is now unfit for use.

STANFORD ACHIEVEMENT TEST

CLASS RECORD AND CLASS ANALYSIS CHART
PRIMARY BATTERY

Grade.......... Teacher.............................................. Examiner..............................................

School.................................................................. City and State ........................................

Form used....... Date of examination.................. Grade placement as of testing date .........................

DIRECTIONS

Identifying data. Fill in the information called for at the top of this page. The grade placement of pupils as of the time of testing may be found from Table 2 of the Directions for Administering.

Class Record. In the Class Record on page 4 write the names of the pupils either in alphabetical order or in order of their achievement, the best pupil being No. 1, the second best No. 2, and so on. If the Analysis Chart is to be used, it will be helpful to record the names in order of achievement. The numbers preceding the pupils' names are the pupils' identification numbers, and are used in place of the pupils' names for the distributions in the Class Analysis Chart on page 2 and page 3.

In the column after pupils' names, write B or G to indicate the sex of the pupil. In the next column, enter the ages of the pupils in years and months. In the other columns of the Class Record enter the pupils' grade or age equivalents, or equated scores on the subtests, and on the entire test, as indicated by the headings at the top of the columns. If the Class Analysis Chart is to be used, equated scores should be entered on the Class Record.

At the right of the Class Record two columns without any headings are provided. These columns may be used for recording optional data, such as IQ's, etc.

Class Analysis Chart. The Class Analysis Chart has been provided to assist the teacher in summarizing the test results for an entire class. For ease in referring to the columns of the Class Analysis Chart a number is placed above each column. At the left of this Chart are three columns (Columns 1, 2, and 3) in which are listed age equivalents, grade equivalents, and equated scores. These three columns really constitute a table of norms for the test; the age or grade appearing opposite any equated score is the age or grade equivalent for that score.

In Columns 4 through 11 distributions may be made of total scores, of subtest scores, and of average scores on the Arithmetic and Reading tests. In distributing the scores in these boxes, put the identification number of each pupil in the appropriate box on the same line as his equated score. Thus, if John Jones has identification number 17 and has an equated score of 47 in Paragraph Meaning, a 17 would be recorded in the Paragraph Meaning column opposite the score of 47. Similarly, if Alice Clark has identification number 9 and has an equated score of 41 in Arithmetic Reasoning, a 9 would be entered in the Arithmetic Reasoning column opposite a score of 41. This recording should be carried through for all pupils in the class for all subtests.

The teacher will then have available a distribution of scores in each subject and a means of readily identifying the pupils who are at any level of ability in any subject. The Chart provides a concise yet complete picture of the results of the class on the test, indicating to the teacher at a glance the subjects in which the best and poorest work is being done, the range of abilities in each of the subjects, the individual pupils who are most in need of attention in each area, and the proportions of pupils above or below the norm in any of the subjects.

Some teachers find it helpful to draw two heavy colored lines across the Chart, marking off five equated score points above and below the median score of the class. Thus, if the Chart is made for a class whose median score is 32, heavy colored lines would be drawn just below 27 and above 37. All pupils in the class beyond the heavy colored lines may then be considered as deserving of particular attention. This procedure has been found to facilitate rapid segregation of the pupils in need of more individual instruction.

At the foot of each column there is provided a space for recording the median score or grade or age equivalent for that particular column. The desired median in each column may be found rapidly by counting to the middle pupil in the column and reading across in that row to the score or age or grade equivalent. Thus, if there are 37 pupils in the class, the median would be found by counting from the bottom of the column (or the top) until the 19th pupil is reached and then reading across the Chart to the score or equivalent column. These medians provide a convenient summary of the results for the entire class.

At the right of the Chart two additional columns are provided, one for distributing chronological ages and the other for distributing IQ's. The chronological-age column is divided into two sections; in filling out this column it is necessary first to write chronological-age values in the left-hand box, proceeding by one-month intervals from the lowest chronological age in the class to the highest. For example, if the youngest pupil in the class is 6 years and 6 months, then 6–6 would be recorded in the lowest box in the chronological-age column, 6–7 in the next, 6–8 in the next, and so on, until the highest age in the class is reached. Then fill in the identification numbers of the pupils opposite their ages just as was done for scores. The IQ's may be distributed as were the scores. It is highly important that the chronological age and IQ data be kept in mind in interpreting the performance of an individual or of the class.

INSTRUCTIONS

This attendance register is prepared in a manner so that the records kept thereon will not only supply the information needed by the local school officials but also supply the information which is called for by the State Department of Public Instruction.

Column two shows the time present. Each mark designating a whole day or a part of a day subtracted from the total number of days school was in operation during the period will give the time present.

Column three shows the time absent. The total of the figure in column two and column three should equal the number of days school was in operation during the period. If the information is kept on the Daily Register, it should be very easy to fill out the Teacher's Report to the Superintendent at the end of the semester.

The Teacher's Report of the Aggregate Attendance which is filed on October 31 and March 31 goes to the State Department of Public Instruction to determine the number of teaching units. This report should be very carefully filled out according to the information which is recorded on the Daily Register. The Daily Register becomes part of the regular record.

On the Enrollment Record, a column is provided to show whether or not a transfer certificate has been issued for the pupil who does not have legal residence within the corporation. The law provides that a pupil who does not have legal residence within the corporation has no right to receive his instruction in another corporation unless the transfer tuition is provided.

In the Period Report to the Superintendent, on line four, you will find a listing as "permanent withdrawals." A pupil is permanently withdrawn when illness or some other cause assures the school authorities and the attendance officer that the pupil will not be able to return during the entire semester or school year.

CLASS RECORD AND CLASS ANALYSIS CHART
INTERMEDIATE AND ADVANCED BATTERIES — COMPLETE

Grade 7 + 8 Teacher G. Staley Examiner Same

School South Barkley City and State Rensselaer, Ind.

Form used H Date of examination 5-12-47 Grade placement as of testing date 7.8 or 8.8

DIRECTIONS

Identifying data. Fill in the information called for at the top of this page. The grade placement of pupils as of the time of testing may be found from Table 2 of the Directions for Administering.

Class Record. In the Class Record on page 4 write the names of the pupils either in alphabetical order or in order of their achievement, the best pupil being No. 1, the second best No. 2, and so on. If the Analysis Chart is to be used, it will be helpful to record the names in order of achievement. The numbers preceding the pupils' names are the pupils' identification numbers, and are used in place of the pupils' names for the distributions in the Class Analysis Chart on page 2 and page 3.

In the column after pupils' names, write B or G to indicate the sex of the pupil. In the next column, enter the ages of the pupils in years and months. In the other columns of the Class Record enter the pupils' grade or age equivalents, or equated scores on the subtests, and on the entire test, as indicated by the headings at the top of the columns. If the Class Analysis Chart is to be used, equated scores should be entered on the Class Record.

At the right of the Class Record two columns without any headings are provided. These columns may be used for recording optional data, such as IQ's, etc.

Class Analysis Chart. The Class Analysis Chart has been provided to assist the teacher in summarizing the test results for an entire class. For ease in referring to the columns of the Class Analysis Chart a number is placed above each column. At the left of this Chart are three columns (Columns 1, 2, and 3) in which are listed age equivalents, grade equivalents, and equated scores. These three columns really constitute a table of norms for the test; the age or grade appearing opposite any equated score is the age or grade equivalent for that score.

In Columns 4 through 17 distributions may be made of total scores, of subtest scores, and of average scores on the Arithmetic, Reading, and Social Studies tests. In distributing the scores in these boxes, put the identification number of each pupil in the appropriate box on the same line as his equated score. Thus, if John Jones has identification number 17 and has an equated score of 47 in Paragraph Meaning, a 17 would be recorded in the Paragraph Meaning column opposite the score of 47. Similarly, if Alice Clark has identification number 9 and has an equated score of 61 in Arithmetic Reasoning, a 9 would be entered in the Arithmetic Reasoning column opposite a score of 61. This recording should be carried through for all pupils in the class for all subtests.

The teacher will then have available a distribution of scores in each subject and a means of readily identifying the pupils who are at any level of ability in any subject. The Chart provides a concise yet complete picture of the results of the class on the test, indicating to the teacher at a glance the subjects in which the best and poorest work is being done, the range of abilities in each of the subjects, the individual pupils who are most in need of attention in each area, and the proportions of pupils above or below the norm in any of the subjects.

Some teachers find it helpful to draw two heavy colored lines across the Chart, marking off five equated score points above and below the median score of the class. Thus, if the Chart is made for a class whose median score is 58, heavy colored lines would be drawn just below 53 and above 63. All pupils in the class beyond the heavy colored lines may then be considered as deserving of particular attention. This procedure has been found to facilitate rapid segregation of the pupils in need of more individual instruction.

At the foot of each column there is provided a space for recording the median score or grade or age equivalent for that particular column. The desired median in each column may be found rapidly by counting to the middle pupil in the column and reading across in that row to the score or age or grade equivalent. Thus, if there are 37 pupils in the class, the median would be found by counting from the bottom of the column (or the top) until the 19th pupil is reached and then reading across the Chart to the score or equivalent column. These medians provide a convenient summary of the results for the entire class.

At the right of the Chart two additional columns are provided, one for distributing chronological ages and the other for distributing IQ's. The chronological-age column is divided into two sections; in filling out this column it is necessary first to write chronological-age values in the left-hand box, proceeding by one-month intervals from the lowest chronological age in the class to the highest. For example, if the youngest pupil in the class is 8 years and 6 months, then 8–6 would be recorded in the lowest box in the chronological-age column, 8–7 in the next, 8–8 in the next, and so on, until the highest age in the class is reached. Then fill in the identification numbers of the pupils opposite their ages just as was done for scores. The IQ's may be distributed as were the scores. It is highly important that the chronological age and IQ data be kept in mind in interpreting the performance of an individual or of the class.

INSTRUCTIONS

This attendance register is prepared in a manner so that the records kept thereon will not only supply the information needed by the local school officials but also supply the information which is called for by the State Department of Public Instruction.

Column two shows the time present. Each mark designating a whole day or a part of a day subtracted from the total number of days school was in operation during the period will give the time present.

Column three shows the time absent. The total of the figure in column two and column three should equal the number of days school was in operation during the period. If the information is kept on the Daily Register, it should be very easy to fill out the Teacher's Report to the Superintendent at the end of the semester.

The Teacher's Report of the Aggregate Attendance which is filed on October 31 and March 31 goes to the State Department of Public Instruction to determine the number of teaching units. This report should be very carefully filled out according to the information which is recorded on the Daily Register. The Daily Register becomes part of the regular record.

On the Enrollment Record, a column is provided to show whether or not a transfer certificate has been issued for the pupil who does not have legal residence within the corporation. The law provides that a pupil who does not have legal residence within the corporation has no right to receive his instruction in another corporation unless the transfer tuition is provided.

In the Period Report to the Superintendent, on line four, you will find a listing as "permanent withdrawals." A pupil is permanently withdrawn when illness or some other cause assures the school authorities and the attendance officer that the pupil will not be able to return during the entire semester or school year.
